Programme Expectations

As students within the MEMOS Programme, it is important to understand that participation in the programme is distinct from your regular day job or professional role(s). Therefore, MEMOS participants should approach their expectations for accommodations, classrooms, food, and travel from a student perspective, rather than anticipating a high-end, VIP treatment.

While the MEMOS Programme strives to provide a conducive and comfortable learning environment, it is essential to recognize that the focus is on the educational experience, the knowledge gained, and collaboration experiences rather than extravagant amenities. Over the years, MEMOS has strived to make participation affordable for individuals and organizations from diverse backgrounds. Thanks to the combined efforts of MEMOS professors, students, and Olympic Solidarity, we have been successful in maintaining reasonable costs. This commitment to accessibility and affordability is what sets MEMOS apart and contributes to its value. To ensure ongoing support from Olympic Solidarity and to continue providing access to a wide range of participants, we aim to keep programme expenses at a reasonable level in the future.

As students, you are expected to maintain a mindset of gratitude and adaptability, understanding that the emphasis lies on the value of the educational content and the opportunity to learn from international experts, engage in intercultural exchanges, and apply your knowledge to real-life projects within the Olympic system.

By embracing this student perspective, MEMOS fosters a shared understanding that its primary goal is to maximize students' learning outcomes and contribute to the growth of the Olympic Movement. This mindset encourages collaboration, mutual support, and the development of strong professional relationships within the MEMOS community.

By being part of MEMOS, you commit to approaching your MEMOS journey with humility, recognizing that the true value lies in the unique learning experiences, networking opportunities, and friendships formed throughout the program. By aligning your expectations with the student perspective, we create an environment that prioritizes educational excellence, diversity, respect, friendship, and collaboration.
